1. The first of these is the fact that the United States has a large and growing population of people who are not citizens of the United States. This is a result of the large number of people who have immigrated to the United States in recent years, and the fact that many of these people are not naturalized citizens.

► WATER Water is the most important resource for the world's population. It is essential for life, and its availability determines the health and prosperity of nations. However, water is a finite resource, and its distribution is uneven across the globe. In many regions, water scarcity is a major problem, leading to conflicts and social unrest. The United Nations estimates that by 2025, one-third of the world's population will be living in areas with severe water scarcity. This is a dire warning that we must take action now to ensure a sustainable future for all.
